CHAPTER 11 BANKRUPTCY

CASE NO. 10-19817-SJS

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITY IN SUPPORT OF DEBTOR'S APPLICATION FOR AUTHORITY TO EMPLOY FAMILY
LAW ATTORNEY AS DEBTOR'S
SPECIAL COUNSEL NUNC PRO TUNC

21 The Debtor-in-Possession submits this Memorandum of Points and Authorities in 22 Support of its Application for Authority to Employ Family Law Attorney as Debtor's
23 Special Counsel Nunc Pro Tunc.

25 In the case of In re Goldstein, 383 B.R. 496, Bankr. L. Rep. P 80, 987
26 (Bkrty.C.D.Cal., 2007), the Court held that:

1 “In In re Colin, 27 B.R. 87, 89 (Bankr.S.D.N.Y. 1983), a chapter 11 debtor
2 was permitted to retain special counsel for marital dissolution so long as the 3 services concerned the dissolution of marriage as well as the disposition of 4 estate property. Id. However, only professional services relating to the 5 disposition of estate property were reimbursable from the bankruptcy estate.
6 In contrast, services relating to the marital dissolution could not be reimbursed
7 from the estate. Id. The Colin court required special divorce counsel to 8 prepare professional fee applications in detail so that the court could 9 distinguish between legal services relating to the disposition of estate property
10 and representation concerning the marriage dissolution. Id.

11 BAPCPA made a fundamental change in how post-petition divorce actions
12 (and many other expenses in an individual's chapter 11 case) can be funded.
13 Section 1115(a), which BAPCPA added to the bankruptcy code, provides in 14 relevant part:

15 [i]n a case in which the debtor is an individual, property of the estate, in 16 addition to the property specified in section 541-

17 (1) all property of the kind specified in section 541 that the debtor acquires
18 after the commencement of the case but before the case is closed, dismissed, 19 or converted to a case under chapter 7, 12, or 13, whichever occurs first; and

20 FN4 Section 541 broadly defines property of the estate to 21 include “all legal and equitable interests” of the debtor in 22 property at the date of the filing of the bankruptcy petition
23 (with certain exceptions not relevant here).

24 (2) earnings from services performed by the debtor after the commencement
25 of the case but before the case is closed, dismissed, or converted to a case 26 under chapter 7, 12, or 13, whichever occurs first.

27 Thus § 1115(a) gives rise to a new issue that individual chapter 11 debtors 28 have never faced before, because it deprives most individual debtors of any non-estate assets that can be used for any purpose. Essentially all property that an individual debtor obtains while the chapter 11 case is pending is now property of the bankruptcy estate (unless the debtor has the good fortune of having non-estate property, which is unlikely in most cases). Now, individual chapter 11 debtors are no longer permitted to use their post-petition income to pay divorce counsel unless such an expense is authorized for property of the bankruptcy estate.”

1 Clearly, however, by enacting the BAPCPA, Congress did not intend to prohibit chapter 11
2 debtors from getting divorced. "Preventing a debtor from retaining counsel to get a divorce
3 is not one of the purposes of the bankruptcy code." In re Goldstein, 383 B.R. 496, Bankr. L.
4 Rep. P 80, 987 (Bkrtcy.C.D.Cal., 2007).

6 Therefore, under the BAPCPA, the only remaining way under the current version of 7 Section 1115(a) is for a third party (or parties) to pay for those portions of a chapter 11
8 Debtor's divorce proceeding that are non-estate related.

9
10 When third parties pay portions of a chapter 11 Debtor's legal fee and when further,
11 such payments are made with no strings attached (as they are in the case before this court;
12 see Debtor's Application to Employ, page 3, line 2, filed herewith), as long as such 13 payments are disclosed to the Court in Applications for Employment and, subsequently, in 14 Motions for Payment of Fees, there should be no finding that Debtor's divorce attorney had 15 a disqualifying interest or conflict. In re American Intern. Refinery, Inc., 436 B.R. 364, 16 (Bkrtcy.W.D.La., 2010).

17
18 The American Intern. Refinery court went on to distinguish that case, where the 19 payments from a third party for Debtor's chapter 11 legal retainer were given with no strings
20 attached, from In re Marine Power & Equipment Co., Inc., 67 B.R. 643 (Bankr.W.D.Wash.
21 1986) where the Washington court found both actual and apparent conflict but where 22 Debtor's counsel performed dual representation of both debtor corporation and its officers
23 (the third party payors of that Debtor's fees) as co-defendants in connection with a criminal 24 proceeding.

25
26 No such facts giving rise to either actual or even apparent conflict exist in the case
27 before this court.
28

1 Respectfully submitted this 4th day of November, 2010.
